M. W. A. BOOST RATES FOR 1,000,000

Increase Forced by High Death Rate Due to the "Flu"
Pneumonia Epidemic

FIFTY PER CENT INCREASE

Every member of the Modern Woodmen of America will be keenly interested in the transactions that take place at the important meeting of the head camp in Chicago this week. At Wednesday's session the rates were given an increase to meet the demands that the flu epidemic has made upon the treasury. On the present membership the increase is a flat advance of 50 per cent and all new members joining hereafter will have to pay a materially increased rate.

Even this is not considered a strictly actuarial "adequate rate" but it is as far as the membership would go at this time.

This special meeting of the head camp was called when the influenza losses showed that the $12,000,000 of securities which had accumulated during the past twenty years would be consumed before June and that unless prompt action was taken the order would not be able to meet its death claims. Since October the death claims have averaged $2,000,000 a month more than the receipts.

Two tables of rates were adopted one for new members and the other for present membership. The table for new members is based upon the experience of the Modern Woodmen, which represents the largest number of lives in any such society. It is lower than the national fraternal congress table of rates, the mortality experience of the Woodmen having been more favorable than the mortality of the fraternal in general. This will meet the requirements of the adequate rate laws of the various states. They are the increased rates which were adopted by the head camp in 1912, but which was repudiated at that time by the membership at large, which secured injunctions in a number of states preventing their collection.

The table for the present members increases the present rates 50 per cent beginning with 75 cents per $1,000 of insurance at ages 17 to 18, and increasing by 5 cent steps until $1.50 is reached at the age of 38, above which the rate is stationary.

The new monthly assessments for $1,000 of insurance are as follows, applying at age of entry instead of attained age:

| Age | New members | Old members |
|-------|-------------|-------------|
| 17-18 | 75 | 75 |
| 19 | 80 | 80 |
| 20 | 85 | 85 |
| 21 | 90 | 90 |
| 22 | 95 | 95 |
| 23 | 1.00 | 1.00 |
| 24 | 1.05 | 1.05 |
| 25 | 1.10 | 1.10 |
| 26 | 1.15 | 1.15 |
| 27 | 1.20 | 1.20 |
| 28 | 1.25 | 1.25 |
| 29 | 1.30 | 1.30 |
| 30 | 1.35 | 1.35 |
| 31 | 1.40 | 1.40 |
| 32 | 1.45 | 1.45 |
| 33 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 34 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 35 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 36 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 37 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 38 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 39 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 40 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 41 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 42 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 43 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 44 | 1.50 | 1.50 |
| 45 | 1.50 | 1.50 |

The order has been collecting an assessment of 20 cents per $1,000 for a patriotic fund to meet the death claims of its soldier and sailor members, and about $3,000,000 was no hand in this fund. This will be transferred to the general fund until present emergency is over, and the collection of the patriotic fund assessment will be continued until the new tax can be put into force.

This will take several months, as a vote was passed in Illinois at the time of the 1912 increase in rates was defeated during a referendum of the membership on any increase in rates. The law

Shoots Two Ducks, Caught by Game Wardens

Two Federal Game Wardens, E. H. Ahlander and E. G. Merrill, made a trip to Waukegan Tuesday, but although they made a thorough search were unable to find any hunters who were violating the federal law which prohibits spring hunting. They then proceeded to the lake region. At Grass Lake they arrested Axel W. Snunesson, proprietor of the Klondike resort. He had two blue bills in his possession.

Snunesson was arrested before Justice Harry A. Isaacs of this village and entered a plea of guilty. On recommendation of the federal game wardens he was bound over to the U. S. District court in bonds of $500, which he furnished.

The arrest of Snunesson was the only one to take place Tuesday, but assurance was given by the federal men that they intend to keep a close watch on Lake county because of its many lakes and because of its possibility of law violations.

The lowest fine for a violation of this kind is $100 and the highest is $500, with the possibility of six months in jail thrown in for good measure.

Ray Webb Is Back

Mrs. Geo. Webb and Miss Elizabeth received the most pleasant surprise of their life last Sunday afternoon when their telephone rang and Elizabeth who answered was told that it was a long distance call from Chicago.

Upon getting connection with the party she was informed that a telegram was awaiting them in Chicago and its contents was repeated to her over the wire. It proved to be from her brother Ray, and stated that he had arrived in Philadelphia and was on his way to Camp Dix, N. J.

A card received from him Wednesday morning stated that he would soon be in Camp Grant and hoped to be home again in the near future.

This is the first that has been heard from him since he was sent to the Mediterranean to recuperate from his injuries.

Wesley H. Strang Is Heard From

Just as the parents and friends of Wesley H. Strang of Gurnee, had thoroughly made up their minds that he had met his death in a foreign land, they are in receipt of a most cheering bit of news. It was an official telegram and reached them Monday morning of this week, it read "your son Wesley H. Strang, reported for duty on February 21st."

He had been reported as missing in action on October 1st, and from that time on no word was received from him until the glad tidings of his safety arrived the first of this week.

Look Decent.

Bobby's father was a photographer, and the little fellow had often seen him take pictures and heard him admonish the people to "Look pleasant, please." One day he obtained a snail, worm camera and pretended to take his little playmate's picture. Getting her to stand for a snapshot, he directed: "Now, Inez, stand still and look decent, please."

Best When Fully Ripe.

The exuberance of beauty in woman does not reach its climax before the age of 35 or 40. Helen, the great Greek beauty, was 48 years old when she came to Troy. Asquith did not become the friend of Pericles before the age of 37, and long after that she was admired as the most beautiful woman of her time. Cleopatra was over 30 when Antonius fell in love with her, and Diana de Poliers over 30 when she won the heart of Henry II.

Easy Window Washing.

To clean windows simply hold a newspaper under the water faucet long enough to dampen it, crush together and rub on the window pane. The window will be cleaned, washed and dried instantly. Should that remain brush off with a dry cloth. Cotton gloves may be worn to protect the hands.

prescribes the manner in which this referendum is to be taken, and it is estimated that it cannot be completed and the new rates put into effect before July 1. It is not believed that the referendum can defeat the action of the head camp, since the law provides that the increased rates shall stand unless a majority of the entire membership of the order votes against them.

As experience has shown that a comparatively small proportion of the membership at large will vote either way on such a proposition, it is regarded as certain that a majority in opposition cannot be secured.

ARRESTED FOR SPRING SHOOTING

Migratory Law of Federal Government May Stand or Fall in This Case

HUNTERS ARE INTERESTED

The arrest at Fox Lake recently of twenty men charged with a violation of the migratory bird law which prohibits spring shooting of ducks, will result in a test of the law's constitutionality it was stated. Some of the men who will be arranged before Federal Judge Landis in Chicago, are men of prominence and plan to make this a test case.

They take the position that inasmuch as the State of Illinois issues them a license to hunt game in the spring that any federal law in conflict is unconstitutional, insofar as it applies to this state. This is a matter that never has been tested, it is said. Up to four years ago it was a common practice to hunt ducks both spring and fall in Illinois. Then gradually the federal law was put into effect, but this was not regarded seriously until a year or so ago.

The fear of violating the federal statute has kept many hunters from shooting ducks in the spring, but it was not until this year that federal deputy game wardens started coming into Lake county and other counties of the state to look for violations. It is known that there has been much spring hunting this year, but the state game wardens were powerless to prevent, for the state license gives this right to hunters. Of late the federal wardens have been making their rounds and have nabbed a number of violators who have been notified to appear in federal court.

Hunters in Lake county will watch with real interest the fight on the constitutionality of the federal law.

Special Meeting of A. C. A.

There will be a special meeting of the Antioch Commercial Association on Friday evening, March 28, at seven thirty o'clock. At this meeting officers will be elected for the ensuing year. Every member is requested to be present. W. R. Williams, sec'y.

"Flu" Causes Tragic Death of Watchman

When workmen entered the Silverlake stove works Monday morning they were confronted by the sight of the lifeless body of the night watchman, Wm. Prosser, lying across a small bench. A bullet wound and a revolver lying close by plainly told the story of his death. Mr. Prosser had suffered from a severe attack of the "flu" last winter and never fully recovered from the effects. It left him in a state of melancholia which no effort could shake off. He seemed to be constantly worrying about something and uneasily longed for the return of his son from France, but never once did he hint at taking his own life and his death was a severe shock to his family and friends. He is survived by his widow and four children, one daughter and three sons, the eldest son being in France at the present time.

The funeral was held at Silverlake on Wednesday and was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Keulman of this village. Mrs. Keulman being a cousin of the Prosser family.

Odd Foods.

Sea urchins' eggs are used in Ceylon as we eat raw oysters here. The Mexicans use a variety of scorpion, after removing the sting, in a special sort of omelet, to which they add a peculiar sort of peppery flavor. A large variety of locusts and grasshoppers are dried, then cooked, by people in portions of India, Arabia and Syria.

Too Cool for Comfort.

The coldest place on earth inhabited by man is Verkhoyansk, above the arctic circle, in northern Siberia. The thermometer there drops to 98 degrees below zero in January, but sometimes rises to 80 degrees above zero in the shade in July, dropping, however, to the freezing point on the warmest summer night.

Letter From George Palmer to His Parents Here

Dudelorf, Germany,
Feb. 27, 1919

Dear Parents:—

I will try and write a few lines tonight in answer to your last letter which came last Sunday. I found me feeling fine and dandy and I hope these few lines will find you both well. There is sure a lot of sickness all over. I believe there is just as much of it here as in the States. There is a lot of the boys that have gone to the hospital and a lot of the natives are sick. It is sort of grippe they have, but they all seem to well get it in a few days. I have been pretty lucky, I have not had a bad cold all winter and hope that I won't get it. The weather is pretty soft and it rains more or less every day. Yes I know that we were to go homeward on Jan. 17, but that order was changed and we are still in Germany and at the present rate of shipping we will be here or some place back in France until the first of June, but if they speed up a little and get more ships we will get back in God's country before June. That is about all we know, and I doubt if the officers know any more about going home than some of the buck private does, it all depends on the ships.

I had a talk with George Garland last Saturday he was driving a truck through this town when I was on duty so he stopped and spent a half hour with me. He is getting along fine and is staying about five miles from here.

I am with the M. P.'s yet and like it fine. I will make a good copper when I get in the States again, for I have been with the Military Police most of the time since we came into Germany. The people here are good workers, and the girls are strong and do a man's work. They get about 22 cents a day or about 22 cents in our money. I guess I will take two or three of these girls back with me, they all want to go to the U. S., and are saving money for the trip. Everything is high in price here. Pork is about $2 a pound, so the people live on sauer kraut. The people here are all Catholics and they would rather go to church than eat, but they sure try and do all they can for us.

Well it is about supper time and I have to go on duty for five hours right after supper, so I will stop. I sent you a letter a few days ago hope you get my mail o. k. I have not heard from Harry or any of the boys in France, but hope you have heard from him before now.

I will stop and go to supper, with lots of love to you both and say hello to Fred and Alice for me. I am as ever, George.

Deputy Chilstrom is Coming to Olson Camp

Deputy Jennie R. H. Chilstrom will visit Olson Camp No. 453, R. N. A., on Tuesday, April 8, for the purpose of holding a school of instruction. She will arrive on the afternoon train and will give instruction in the ritualistic work the remainder of the afternoon and evening.

This meeting will be of unusual interest and every Royal Neighbor is urged to attend.

Mankind Suspicious.

The flesh of the shark is said to resemble that of the sturgeon—the fish that "goes to the Caesar's dish," but its cannibalistic reputation, firmly fixed in the popular mind, is against it. Man's dread of the gastronomically untried is only equalled by his curiosity, which after all gets the better of his fears. Truly he was a brave man who first swallowed a raw oyster.

Couldn't "Unthink."

Elizabeth had broken her precious doll and was inconsolable. The entire family united in trying to cheer her up and make her forget her sorrow. One day soon after the catastrophe her mother found her in tears and, putting her arms about her, said: "Tell mother what's the trouble, dear." To which the little one made answer: "Oh, mother, I can't unthink about my doll."

Antiquity of the Jews.

Armenian and Georgian historians of southern Russia record that the Jew had settled among them in remote antiquity. They have evidence to prove that the children of Israel had lived round the Black and Caspian seas prior to the destruction of the first temple—587 B. Did Silverlake

Did the Silverlake confederates? Residents are now beginning to think that the conspiracy were on the loose. Bob Sibley of Salem, a jitney for hire had a deal couple of men that is supposed to have a direct bearing on the case. Two men strangers in town it believed, had planned a way to Helsinki to escape after he had succeeded in getting the money, but their was thwarted by the capture of robber.

The men appeared in the village just afternoon and made arrangements with Sibley to drive them to "Klondike" directly north of Salem and get them there at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Their motive was not questioned at the time but is now seen that they were to have met Juchalski there and helped him to escape. Friends of Sibley now feel that had not fate interfered he would in all probability have been disposed of when the trio met and his auto would have afforded them the means of escape.

The belief that these two strangers were pale of Juchalski is strengthened by the fact that phone messages came in from time to time saying that the robber had been captured at Genoa Junction. These messages were sent for the purpose of calling off the posse that was searching the immediate vicinity.

The two men in question were arrested in Salem by Deputy Sheriff J. Miltz but when it was found that they had no money in their possession they were released.

During the late evening the two men slipped out of Salem and nothing has been seen of them since that time. It is believed that they walked to the nearest railroad station and managed to catch a train taking them to safety.

Officials now believe that they made a big mistake in allowing them to go.

Thain Springs One on Geo. Stephens

Last week quite an excitement prevailed throughout the vicinity of Millburn and soon spread to all parts of the county, when a rumor began to float about to the effect that Geo. B. Stephens of Millburn had been keeping a blind pig. Close on the heels of the first rumor came a second to the effect that Stephens' sons had returned from war and had done away with the aforesaid blind pig.

People gasped and wondered if they had heard aright, and all the while John Thain another prominent Millburn resident was chuckling to himself and thoroughly enjoying the excitement.

When the joke had in his estimation gone far enough, he innocently explained that perhaps he was responsible for the rumor for he had spoken of something which might start one, but the "blind pig" to which he had referred when telling the story was in reality a "sightless porker" which Stephens had been fattening and which the boys had butchered.

We predict that George will get even with Thain yet.

Chinese Superstition.

Superstition is rampant in China and when Chen Ying Yin, a trader in Straits Settlements, after his return to Kaping, his own village, proposed to open the lands along Fel Ngo mountain as a field for grazing, his suggestion could hardly be carried out as his villagers bitterly protested against the project on account of their belief in "Fung Sui," a superstition relating to the locations of places.

Geat Good Milk Producer.

Mr. Winthrop Howland of Redlands, Cal., last year had a Swiss Toggenburg goat, kept on the University of California farm, which broke the world's record as a milk producer by over 300 pounds. THE THIRTEENTH COMMANDMENT.

RUPERT HUGHES

DAPHNE, AIDED AND ABETTED BY HER SISTER-IN-LAW, SUCCUMBS TO LURE OF THE SHOPS.

Synopsis.—Clay Wimburn, a young New Yorker on a visit to Cleveland, meets pretty Daphne Kip, whose brother is in the same office with Clay in Wall street. After a whirlwind courtship they become engaged. Clay buys an engagement ring on credit and returns to New York. Daphne agrees to an early marriage, and after extracting from her money-worried father what she regards as a sufficient sum of money for the purpose she goes to New York with her mother to buy her trousseau. Daphne's brother, Bayard, has just married and left for Europe with his bride, Lella. Daphne and her mother install themselves in Bayard's flat. Wimburn introduces Daphne and her mother to luxurious New York life. Daphne meets Tom Duane, man-about-town, who seems greatly attracted by her. Daphne accidentally discovers that Clay is penniless, except for his salary. Bayard and his wife return to New York unexpectedly.

Her sympathies would ordinarily have been with her brother in any dispute between him and his wife. But this was a dispute between Bayard and love. It was sacrilegious for him to go on reading the Times when his bride had so much more important things to discuss. He heard her discuss them as through a morning paper, darkly, and he made the wrong answers, and finally he snatched out his watch, glared it in the face, gasped, and attacked the last of his breakfast like a train-catcher at a lunch-counter.

It was thus that he heard Lella wail, "What's to become of me all morning?" Bayard stared at her sharply, but spoke softly enough: "Why, I don't know, honey. There ought to be plenty for you to do. The Lord knows there's enough for me at the office."

"All right," sighed Lella. "I'll be brave and worry through somehow, till noon, with my sweet new sister's help. But we'll come down and lunch with you. About what time do you go out to luncheon, Bay?"

Bayard's answer was discouraging: "This is one of the three days a week when the heads of the firm always lunch at Delmonico's in a private room. I'm afraid I can't lunch with you today."

"And you'll leave me this whole terrible day? I can never exist so long without you!"

"I'm mighty sorry, honey. But men must work, and so forth. I've been away too long. The office needs me. And I've spent a lot of money, and I've got to go down and earn some more to buy pretty things for my beauty."

This brightened her in a way he had not expected, and a little too far beyond his hopes. "Gloom left her face like a cloud whipped from before the sun. She dazzled him with her smile."

"Oh, I know what to do! Daphne and your mother and I can go shopping."

Bayard's heart stopped. He wondered what on earth more there was in the shops that she could want to buy. She had come to the marriage with her trousseau only partly completed, on account of the haste of the wedding. But she had bought and bought in Europe. She had made his honeymoon anxious by her rapacity for beautiful things to wear. And now that they had come to New York with their old trunks bulging and new trunks bulging abroad bulging, and had paid a thumping sum at the custom house, now she was still eager to go shopping!

What he wanted to do was to quit buying for a while and sell something. He did not say this. Love was slipping the bandage off one eye; but it had not yet removed the sugar stick that stops the tongue from criticism.

Lella grew more cheerful at a terrifying rate: "Go on to your old luncheon, my dear child, and Daphne and your mother and I will go on a spree in the shops. Then we'll all have a banquet tonight and a theater, and if we're not too tired, a supper; and if you're very good I'll take you to one of those dancing places afterward. I'll buy the theater tickets myself. I'll get good ones. I want to save you as much trouble as I can, honey. So run along to your office and don't worry about us. But you must miss me—frantically! Will you?"

He vowed that he would, and he meant it. She was a most mischievous creature.

He rose to leave, but she stopped him to say, "What play shall we see?" This was the occasion for elaborate debate till Bayard gave signs of tramping his wrath and bolting.

Lella graciously released him only to call him back to say that he had forgotten his newspaper.

"I left it for you. Don't you want to read it?" he asked. "I can get another at the subway station."

She shook her head: "There's nothing interesting in the papers. I'm just bored, and I know more about the things they do."

Bayard shuddered a little, but the times were epic. Immortal progress was being made as never before: ancient despotisms were turning into republics, republics were at war with one another; constitutions, labor problems, life problems, all social institutions, were being ripped up and remade, all the relations of masters and men, mistresses, children, wives, animals.

Yet Lella said there was nothing in the papers! Revolutionary news meant to her a change in the fashion in sleeves, the shift of the equatorial waistline a trifle nearer the bust or a trifle nearer the hips, the release of the ankles from tight skirts. The great rebellion in her world was the abrupt decision of the dressmakers that after years of costumes clinging more and more closely to the human outline they would depart from it in every way possible. Lella was interested vitally in what women would wear and what they would leave off, and grandly indifferent to which nations were shooting at which. Bayard hesitated, appealed again to his watch, gasped at the hour and the minutes, kissed Lella violently, kissed Daphne and kissed his mother and rushed for the door. Lella put out her arms again.

"I must be fast," she cried, and as he bowed into her arms she kissed his ear and whispered, "and first, too, and all the between."

Bayard was a business man from his cradle days. He loved promptitude. He blushed to arrive late at his office and set a bad example to his stenographers and clerks. It was his creed that success comes to those who arrive earlier on the battlefield than the others, fight harder, stay longest there, and end every day with the next day's maneuvers clearly realized as part of the next month's campaign.

There was need for concentration in his business, for he had brought back from Europe a sense of great disaster in the air. And there was no encouragement on instinctive feeling that the worst must be over because it had lasted so long.

CHAPTER VII.

It was a time when everybody was cutting down appropriations, reducing expenses. Cities, counties, states, nations were all paying the penalty of former extravagances by present economies. Rich people were positively boastful of their penuries.

The three women assailed a list of things for Daphne's trousseau with the ruthlessness of an auditing committee. They cut out this and that, decided that this gown could be omitted or postponed, that waist could be had in a cheaper quality, these parasols were not really necessary, those stockings need not be so numerous all at once.

And yet even Mrs. Kip admitted that the whole array was far beyond the reach of her husband's means. Still she insisted that he could provide a partial trousseau at least. She herself would "go without things" for ten years if necessary.

Daphne, however, was haunted by the vision of her father's harrowed, money-hungry face. When her mother reminded her that it was his last chance to do anything for her, she retorted, "Yes, and it's my last chance to do anything for him."

Her pride was wrung by her plight. She must either go shabby or cause acute distress to one or both of the men that were dearest of all in the world to her. She must leave behind her a burden of debt as a farewell tribute to her father, or she must bring with her a burden of debt as her dot.

"No!" she cried, with a sudden impatient slash at the Gordian knot. "Clay will have to take me just as I am or take back his diamond ring he wished on me."

Her defiance was not convincing. Her mother protested:

"It's not Clay that you have to consider. He'll never know what you have on. It's the guests at the wedding—and your old friends and the neighbors. You don't want them to think we're poor and that your father is marrying you off cheap, do you?"

Daphne stared back. "It seems mighty foolish to go and make yourself really poor in order to keep from seeming poor, especially when you never fool anybody except yourself!"

Lella, with the magnanimity of a native spendthrift, tried to soothe the fever of the rebel: "Let's go shopping around, anyway. I may see something I want for myself. Bayard dragged me away from Paris before I had finished shopping. There are several things I need desperately."

The three wise women set forth: they joined the pellucid army pouring from all the homes like a levee on masse, a foray of pretty humans.

They reached the alluring place where the famous Dutilh, like an amiable Mephistopheles, offered to buy souls in exchange for robes of angelic charm.

In the window, on a dummy, with no head, no feet, and a white satin bust, hung a gown that seemed to cry aloud to Daphne:

"I belong to you and you belong to me! Fill me with your flesh and I will cover you with an aureole."

The three forlorn women understood the message instantly. They looked at one another, then, without a word, entered the shop, doomed in advance.

Lella was known to Dutilh and he greeted her with an extravagant impudence that terrified Mrs. Kip:

"You little devil!" he hissed. "Get right out of my theater. How dare you come here after letting somebody else build your trousseau?"

Lella apologized and explained and he pretended to be mollified as he pretended to have been insulted. Having thus made the field his own, he turned to Daphne, studied her frankly with narrowed eyes as if she were asking to be a model, and sighed:

"Oh, what a narrow escape!"

Daphne jumped and gasped, "From what?"

"That gown in the window, that Lella! That was born for you. You must have seen it—the afternoon one in parchment-toned tulle and tulle."

The women, astounded by his intuition, nodded and breathed hard, like terrified converts at a seance. He was referring to the one that belonged to Daphne, and he ordered her to get into it at once.

She demurred: "I'm afraid of the price. How much is it, please?"

"Don't talk of money!" Dutilh stormed. "I hate it! Let's see the gown on you." He called one of his tawny mannikins. "Help Miss Kip into this gown, Maryla."

A mournful-eyed heavily led Daphne into a dressing room and acted as maid. Daphne stepped out of her street suit into the Parisian froth as if she were going from chrysalis to butterfly. Maryla was murmurous with homage as she fastened it together and led Daphne forth.

Mrs. Kip felt as if she had surrendered a mere daughter and received a superb changeling. Daphne was no longer a pretty girl; she was something ethereal, bewitched and bewitching. If she could own that gown her mother would be repaid for all her pangs from travail on. She would accept the gown as advance royalty on any future handshakes.

Daphne looked about for Lella, but Lella was gone. She reappeared a moment later in a costume almost more delicious than Daphne's—a tunic of peach-bloss tulle caught up with pink rosebuds and hanging from a draped bodice of peach-bloss satin that formed a yoke low on the hips. And there was a narrow petticoat of peach-pink satin. It was as if peaches had a soul, as perhaps they have.

Perfect happiness is said to need a bit of horror to make it complete. The happiness of the two girls did not lack that element. The price of their glory furnished it. They asked the cost with anxiousness.

Said Dutilh: "To Miss Kip I'll let it go dirt cheap for three hundred and twenty-five. The one Miss—er—Mrs. Kip has on I'll give away for—ummm, well—any the same price."

Daphne and her mother were sickened. But Daphne was suffering one of those gusts of mania that ruin people. Her soul of souls clamored to wear that very gown that very afternoon. Even to take it off would hurt like dayling.

Lella had the same feeling. Her appetite for resplendent gowns had grown with exercise.

Dutilh took pity on them: "Look here," he said, "I'll make the price two hundred and seventy-five. It's giving them away, but you are such visions in them!"

It was a big reduction, but it left the price still mountain high.

"I want something to wear tomorrow afternoon," Lella said. "I've got to go to a tea and my sister has to go with me."

Daphne had not heard of the tea, but she wanted somewhere to go in that gown.

Dutilh smiled: "Nothing easier. Take the duds with you or let me send them. Where are you living now?"

Lella made a confession: "The trouble is, Mr. Dutilh, that I'm just back from Paris and I haven't a cent left, and Miss Kip is buying her trousseau and has spent more already than she expected to."

Dutilh rose to the bait that he had expected them to dangle: "That's simple. Why not open an account with me? Take the gowns along and pay me when you like."

Lella murmured, "I should have to ask my husband."

Daphne said, "My father wouldn't like me to start an account."

"Charge it to your sister's account, then, and pay her."

"You say you would charge them both to me?" said Lella.

"Certainly," said Dutilh.

"Send them, then," said Lella, with imperial brevity.

"Thank you," Dutilh smiled. "You shall have them this afternoon. And

"He's Awfully Rich, I Suppose," Said Daphne.

by the way, I've just remembered a marvelous design by Paul Parret's. Let me show it to you."

"Come quick; let's run," said Daphne, and she hurried out of the infernal paradise.

They dawdled on, down the avenue, pausing at window after window, each flaunting opportunities for self-improvement. But Daphne's joy in her new gown was turning to remorse. She was realizing that that parchment-toned tulle needed parchment-toned stockings and slippers and a hat of the same era as the gown.

She was startled from her reveries by the sudden gasp of Lella:

"If there isn't Tom Duane just coming out of his club!"

"I met him last night," said Daphne. "You did? Did he say he knew me?"

"He said that Bayard stole you from him."

Lella was flattered, but loyal: "Nonsense. I was never his to steal. I never loved him, of course. It wouldn't have done any good if I had. Tom Duane's a nonmarrier."

"He's awfully rich, I suppose," said Daphne.

"No, not rich at all, as rich people go. But he was mentioned the other day in the will of an old aunt he used to be nice to. He's nice to everybody."

Duane met them now and paused, baredheaded, to greet Daphne with flattering cordiality. She was greatly set up to be remembered. She presented him to her mother, who was completely upset at having to meet so famous an aristocrat right out in the street when she was still flustered over the ferocious price of Daphne's new dress.

"Will you have a bit of lunch with me?" asked Duane.

"We were just going to have something somewhere," said Mrs. Kip.

"My husband would object," said Lella.

"I'm not inviting you," said Duane. "I'm inviting the genuine Mrs. Kip. You may come along as old married chaperon, if you have to."

"But Miss Kip is engaged."

"So I suspected. That's why I'm inviting her. I feel safe."

As they turned east into Forty-fourth street and entered Delmonico's the carriage man saluted Duane, pedestrian as he was, called him by name, and seemed to be happier for seeing him. The doorman smiled and bowed him in by name, and Duane thanked him by name. The hat-boys greeted him by name and did not give him a check. The head waiter beamed as if a long-awaited guest of honor had come, and the captains bowed and bowed.

Duane did not ask his guests what they would have. The head waiter told him in a low voice what he ought to have.

Daphne rejoiced. All luxury was music to her. Fine clothes, fine foods on fine dishes, fine horses, motors, furniture, fine everything, gave her an exaltation of soul like the thrill of a religion.

New York was heaven on earth. The streets were gold, the buildings of jasper, and the people angels—good angels or bad, as the case might be, but still angels. She wanted to be an angel.

Among the squads of men and women camped about the little tables she made out Shella Kemble again, in a knot of elderly women of manifest importance.

"Isn't that Shella Kemble?" Daphne asked.

"Yes, that's Shella," said Duane, and he waved to her and she to him. He turned back to Daphne. "Awfully nice girl. Like to meet her?"

"I'm crazy to."

"I'd bring you together now, but she's completely surrounded by grandes dames."

He named the women, and Mrs. Kip gaped at them as if they were a group of Valkyrs in Valhalla. It startled her to see them paying such court to an actress. She said so.

"All great successes love one another," Duane explained. "Those old ladies were geniuses at getting born in the best families, and Shella has earned her place. She looks a bit like your daughter, don't you think?"

Mrs. Kip tilted her head and studied Miss Kemble and nodded. She made the important amendment. "She looks like she used to look like Daphne."

"That's better," said Tom Duane. "Miss Kip might be her understudy."

"How much does an understudy get?" said Daphne, abruptly.

"I haven't the faintest idea!" Duane exclaimed. "Not much, I imagine, except an opportunity."

"Is it true that Miss Kemble makes so much?"

"I'd like to trade incomes with her, that's all. Her manager, Reben, was telling me that she would clear fifty thousand dollars this year."

Mrs. Kip was aghast. Daphne was electrified. She surprised Duane with another question: "You said Miss Kemble was married?"

"Yes, and has children, and loves her husband. But she couldn't stand idleness. She's just come back to the stage after several years of rustling in a small city."

Daphne fired one more question point-blank: "Do you think I could succeed on the stage?"

"Why not?" he answered. "You have—with your mother's permission—great beauty and magnetism, a delightful voice, and intelligence. Why shouldn't you succeed? You would probably have a peck of trouble getting started, but—Do you know any managers?"

"I never met one."

"Well, if you ever decide that you want to try it, let me know, and I can probably force somebody to give you a job."

"I'll remember that," said Daphne, darkly.

She said nothing more while the luncheon ran its course.

The women got rid of Tom Duane gracefully—Lella asked him to put them in a taxicab, as they had still much shopping to do. They rode to a department store, and Lella started another account. They rode back to the apartment. There they found a day letter from Daphne's father to her mother.

"As you see by papers big Cowper firm failed today for ten million dollars this hits us hard you better come home not buy anything more situation serious but hope for best don't worry, love."

Mrs. Kip dropped into a chair. The shock was so great that it shook first from her a groan of sympathy for her husband.

"Your poor father! And he's worked so hard and been so careful."

Bayard came home into for dinner and in a state of grave excitement. The great Cowper wholesale establishment had fallen like a steep cliff, crushing many a house. Indirectly it had rattled the windows of Bayard's firm; had stopped the banks from granting an important loan. Bayard spent a bad day downtown. The news of his father's distress was a heavy blow. But he tried to dispense encouragement to the three women who could not quite realize what all the excitement was about, or why the disaster of a big chain of wholesale stores would be of any particular importance to them.

Bayard was just saying: "I tell you, Lella honey, I was the wise boy when I married you, for now I've got you, and I need you. Thank the Lord I'm not loaded up with debt. I've kept clear of that."

Daphne is confronted by a situation that forces her to make the most momentous decision of her life and she makes it without the slightest hesitation. You will not want to miss reading about this in the next installment.

DID SMILE ON OCCASIONS

Indian Could Relax, but Only When He Felt He Had Earned the Right, as It Were.

Here is a story told at a dinner party by a Red Cross official who has just returned from France.

The grandson of Sitting Bull, the famous Indian chief, was an interesting convalescent in Base Hospital No. 46. He had collapsed in the early days of the war, had gone over the top and worked havoc among the Germans before he was wounded.

Nurses and doctors caring for him tried in vain to get more than a grunt out of him in response to questions, while the other men in the ward called him "Gloomy Gus," because he never cracked a smile.

The Red Cross representative in the hospital becoming interested, tried his hand at "cheering up" the Indian. Gifts of cigarettes and chocolate were received, but without a change of expression.

"Don't you ever smile?" he demanded of the Indian one day, and for the first time Sitting Bull's grandson grinned.

"Sure," he replied. "When I kill a Boche!"

For a moment the Indian smiled, but his eyes were so much heavier in the long run, and caused less sick headaches.

A man isn't necessarily honest just because he is poor.

Stock Raising in Western Canada

is as profitable as Grain Growing

In Western Canada Grain Growing is a profit maker. Raising Cattle, Sheep and Hogs brings certain success. It's easy to prosper where you can raise 20 to 45 bu. of wheat to the acre and buy on easy terms.

Land at $15 to $30 Per Acre

Good Grazing Land at Much Less.

Railway and Land Companies offer unusual inducements to homeseekers to settle in Western Canada and enjoy her prosperity. Loans made for the purchase of stock or other farming requirements can be had at low interest.

The Governments of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta extend every encouragement to the farmer and ranchman. You can obtain excellent land at low prices on easy terms, and get high prices for your grain, cattle, sheep and hogs—low taxes (none on improvements), good markets and shipping facilities, free schools, churches, splendid climate and sure crops.

SPEECH APPEALED TO HIM

More or Less Good Reason Why Listener Considered It Great Oratorical Effort.

They are telling a good joke on Will Upshaw. He was up the other day, and was the interesting center of several groups of members who had heard of the "Prohibition Cyclone" of Georgia.

While talking in the lobby to one of these groups of forthcoming associates, Congressman Garrett of Houston, Tex., passed, and saluted.

"Did you ever hear Garrett speak?" asked Upshaw of the members of his group.

"Yes," they all chimed in.

"The most masterly address, the most beautiful, soul-stirring address I ever heard in all my life of association with great orators, tell from the lips of that great Texan and statesman one night at Dallas," said Upshaw.

"On what subject was Garrett speaking?" queried one of the party, rather interested.

"He was introducing me," replied Upshaw solemnly.—Atlanta Constitution.

SAY FIFTH LOAN WILL GO OVER

Liberty Loan Workers of the Seventh District Tell Glass Issue Will Be Subscribed.

MEETING HELD IN CHICAGO

Secretary of Treasury Declares "Our Honor Is Pledged to Preserve What Has Been Won by Those Boys of Ours Over There."

Chicago, March 22.—The even tenor of the speech of Secretary of the Treasury Glass before 1,500 Liberty loan workers at the Hotel La Salle here was interrupted by some one at the speaker's table, who called out:

"Make it five per cent!"

The secretary dropped the manuscript from which he was carefully reading and made vigorous reply:

"There is a gentleman present who thinks the loan would be more attractive at five per cent. I want to say to you that the loan looks attractive to me regardless of the rate of interest."

"Our honor is pledged to preserve what has been won by those boys of ours over there. The honor of the nation, which is our honor, is at stake, and I would give every dollar I have and every dollar I ever expect to make before I would dishonor the memory of those men. Five per cent interest does not concern me."

"But the secretary was answered when he had closed his speech. The chairman called upon Abner Larned of Michigan who confessed to being "in a way," a Detroit banker, but said that principally he is a manufacturer of overalls.

"There are two things we beg of you, Mr. Secretary," said he. "First, that the treaty of peace be signed as quickly as possible; and second, that the rate of interest on this bond issue be made so attractive that we can put it over in record time."

"It is your duty and privilege, sir, to fix the rate, and I will not now suggest what I think it ought to be. But I do want to remind you, sir, that whatever be the rate, it will be paid to the 20,000,000 bond buyers we have developed in this country, and I for one will not begrudge it to them."

The audience leaped to its feet, pairs of feet and cheered and yelled approval.

This scene was the sequel to a conference earlier in the day, when five of the Liberty loan leaders met the secretary and argued with him for a rate of five per cent on the fifth, or "Victory Loan." He did not say what he would do, but he gave the committee the impression that the rate would be lower.

Secretary Glass promised that this would be the last loan on the war account and the Liberty loan organization would pass out of existence when it is "put over."

At noon Mr. Glass was a luncheon guest of the Chicago Press club, where he addressed editors and publishers of local newspapers and trade journals and met financiers and business men.

"We call this last the Victory Liberty loan. It is that and more. It is a Thanksgiving loan."

A convention of the war loan organization of the Seventh Federal Reserve district was held at Hotel La Salle with representatives from Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan and Iowa.

NEW PLAN TO PAY FOR BONDS

Treasury Seeks Way to Have Ex-Soldiers Continue Payments Through Banks.

Washington, March 25.—Some means of transferring Liberty bond installment payment accounts of discharged soldiers to banks where the subscribers can continue payments in civil life are under discussion between the war department and the treasury. This action is prompted by the forced cancellation of millions of dollars of subscriptions made by soldiers who on discharge find it impossible to pay the entire balance on their account at once. Consequently they are compelled to abandon their subscriptions and to accept a refund of the installment payments which already have been taken from their monthly pay.

REDS OVERTURN MASARYK RULE

President of Bohemia Is Forced Out as Troops Invade Hungary.

SOVIET SWAY AT BUDAPEST

Moscow and Hungarian Capital Linked —Karl Radek, Leading Russian Bolshevik in Germany, Is Released.

Copenhagen, March 26.—A dispatch from Budapest says the Soviet government has occupied all theaters and music halls and arranged for revolutionary plays and addresses on the significance of the revolution. All the dispatches received from the various sources indicate that the uprising in Hungary was not a spontaneous revolt, but was carefully engineered by the Russian bolshevik leaders, with more than a probability of help from Germany.

Copenhagen, March 26.—A Czechoslovak army has been sent against Hungary, according to an official report received in Vienna and forwarded here.

T. B. Masaryk, the president of Czechoslovakia, has resigned, according to a report received here from Berlin.

Prof. Thomas G. Masaryk was elected president of the Czechoslovak government October 20, 1918, while he was in the United States. He was inaugurated president at Prague, December 22.

Karl Radek, the leading Russian bolshevik agent in Germany, who was arrested on February 13, in connection with the Spartacist uprising, has been released by the German government, according to a Berlin dispatch.

This message reports fresh agitation by the German Spartacists coincident with the Hungarian revolution and reports that in these circumstances the release of Radek has created a bad impression.

The authorities, the dispatch adds, say that Radek entered Germany in a perfectly regular manner and that they have no reason for keeping him under arrest.

Some results of the new Spartacist agitation reported are a serious strike in Lübeck, riots in Stettin and the threat of a general strike in Breslau.

At the first meeting of the new Hungarian government in Budapest Sunday, a dispatch from Berlin says, a soldiers and workmen's council for entire Hungary was appointed, according to plans entered into with the agents of Lenin.

The council immediately started preparation of a bill for the socialization of all industrial activities.

Reports of wireless exchanges between Nikolai Lenin, the bolshevik premier of Russia, and the foreign representative of the new Hungarian communist government are received in advices from Budapest.

Lenin was told that the Hungarian proletariat had seized power and had introduced a proletarian dictatorship. Greetings were sent to Lenin as "leader of the international proletariat."

In greeting the Russian proletariat the new Hungarian government expressed solidarity with the revolutionary movement.

In his reply, Lenin stated that he had submitted the Hungarian greeting to the bolshevik congress at Moscow, which had received it with great enthusiasm. He added:

"In order to communicate between Moscow and Budapest and report on the military situation, it is necessary to maintain permanent wireless communication between the two cities. He concluded by extending 'communist greetings and a handshake.'"

The communists of Vienna held a meeting of sympathy with the proletarian dictatorship in Hungary Sunday morning, according to a Vienna dispatch. The demonstration developed into a manifestation against the entente. There was no disturbance, however, the message declares.

Paris, March 26.—The peace conference has been advised by entente agents of the critical situation in Hungary. Some street fighting in Budapest has been reported.

While the lives of entente nationals are said still to be safe it is urged that they need the protection which would be afforded by monitors proceeding up the Danube from Serbian ports.

Such monitors, according to advices received here, are already on their way up the river.

Who Misleads Europe?

In his farewell address just before sailing on his second trip to Europe, the President said:

"The first thing that I am going to tell the people on the other side of the water is that an overwhelming majority of the American people is in favor of the League of Nations. I know that that is true. I have had unmistakable intimations of it from all parts of the country, and the voice rings true in every case."

The President made that statement immediately after there had been such representative demonstrations against the League of Nations as seldom have been made against any Presidential policy. He said it in face of the fact that a majority of the representatives of the people elected by the people only four months ago, appeared to be opposed to his League scheme. He said it in face of the fact that he had not ventured to seek a vote of confidence in the matter even from a Congress dominated by his own party.

He has been out of the country, thousands of miles away, for three months, and had been absorbed in affairs in lands to a degree which rendered it impossible for him to keep closely in touch with public opinion and sentiment here. He had come back for a hurried and busy visit of a few days. And he affected to have learned in those few days more about the sentiments and wishes of all parts of the country than was known by the foremost men in public life, who had been right here all the time and who had been making it their special business to keep in touch with the people and to make sure of their will.

Yet he "knows" that the overwhelming majority of the people favor his scheme, and he is going to tell the people and governments of Europe that such is the case!

Twenty-four hours before the President made that extraordinary statement of his purpose, Mr. Frank H. Simonds wrote to the New York Tribune from Paris as follows:

"Europe has accepted Mr. Wilson as the spokesman of America. It has to an incredible extent risked all its future hope upon Mr. Wilson, not as an individual but as President of the United States, and if the country repudiates what Mr. Wilson has done here, for domestic or political reasons which are wholly comprehensible to every American, the European tragedy will be stupendous."

"The European has known no other American view than that of President Wilson. It has accepted his view because it believed it to be the American view, and today it stands literally aghast in the presidency of the possibility that the real view of America is something entirely different from the President's."

If Mr. Simonds's statement is correct, there rests upon somebody an appalling responsibility for having thus deceived and misled Europe. It has been no secret in this country that Mr. Wilson's spokesmanship was very seriously and widely challenged, and denied. Only a few weeks before he first sailed for Europe to be our self-appointed and pretended spokesman, he asked the country in an unprecedented manner to give him a popular vote of confidence; and the nation by a large majority refused it. Then one of his chief advisors at the capital asked the Senate, a Democratic Senate which for two years had done his bidding, to give him a vote of confidence, and was unable to obtain it. It was notorious to the world that Congress had not approved his appointment to be our delegate abroad, as other treaty-makers have been appointed and approved; that he had not informed Congress in advance of the policy which he proposed to pursue, and thus had received neither approval of that policy nor authorization to commit the country to any policy whatever.

In those circumstances, we are told, he was accepted by Europe as the spokesman of America, and his views and policies were assumed to be the views and policies of the American nation. Did he personally tell the Governments and the peoples of Europe that such was the case? Did the cable service controlled by Political-Master-General prevent the transmission of other views from this country to Europe; did it prevent the transmission of the truth about this nation's refusal to vote confidence in him? Did the creel's Committee of Information disseminate such official misinformation throughout Europe, as it had formerly done in America? Who is responsible for this cruel and ominous misleading of the nations of Europe?

Washington as the American seat of government becomes increasingly a mere tradition. There is no President here. There is no Congress in session. There is no Secretary of State. The Secretary without Portfolio, Colonel House, is absent. And now the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy are going abroad. Why not send all the others, including the Supreme Court, and let Joe Tumulty run the whole show?

DEVOE The Guaranteed
Lead and Zinc Paint
Fewer Gallons—Wears Longer

It contains no whitening, silica, china clay or other such stuff. It is made of the same pure ingredients that the old-time painter used: Pure White Lead, Pure White Zinc, Pure Linseed Oil, and nothing else. Devoe is mixed by machinery, 1000 gallons at a time. That makes it absolutely uniform in strength, color and covering capacity—always takes fewer gallons, too.

Let us show you the real economy of painting Devoe paint. Will be glad to send you a copy of the practical booklet—"Keep Appearances Up and Expenses Down."

A Business Proposition

By WILL PAYNE.

Secretary Glass said the Victory Liberty Loan should appeal to the patriotism of the people of the United States and not be merely a business proposition.

Isn't that so? It was no business proposition that sent two million young Americans to France and made nearly two million more give up their time for more than a year to train for going. This Victory Loan is to pay for equipping them, sending them over, keeping them there and fetching them back. Will you look one of them in the face and say, "As soon as you stopped fighting and I had given you three hearty cheers you became just a business proposition?"

But the loan is a business proposition, too—this way:

You are Uncle Sam—a hundred odd million of you, individually. Says Uncle Sam to himself, "I owe several million dollars—owe it now on due and maturing obligations that must be met to the last cent. My credit is practically unlimited. I can borrow that money of the banks. They've got to lend it to me. That will mean a large infusion of bank credit—bank loans all swollen up with my paper—banks consequently in a poorer condition to take care of the ordinary business of the country."

But if I do borrow the money of the banks I've got to pay them back some time. There are only two ways in which a man can finally get out of debt. One way is to sell some property and pay up; the other way is to earn more than he spends, saving the difference. I have no property to sell. Can't sell the White House or the national forests. The second way is the only way for me. "Shall I borrow the money from the banks now and thereby put off the real settlement, or shall a hundred million individual Uncle Sams right now save out of their incomes and lend the saving to the collective Uncle Sam, thereby enabling him to pay the bills and wipe the slate, with no inflation, leaving the banks in sound condition to meet the needs of ordinary business?"

That is the question. It is your debt. You owe the money. Finally you've got to pay it in some fashion. To lend in on the banks now is the most expensive way temporarily to dispose of it. To save, individually, is the best and cheapest way. Even waiting patriotism, it comes down to a business proposition. Only the savings and subscriptions of the whole public can take care of the loan without inflation.

—HELP "FINISH THE JOB."
—THE FUN OF SAVING MONEY.

The fun of saving money! Best fun in the world, once you get started. Great game, but it, where every player wins, always, and no one could possibly lose.

What's the fun consist of? What constitutes the fun of any good game? The planning, the struggle, the contest; the spirit of competition, ambition, excitement; the rush, the climax, the triumph of making goal.

What's the cost, the price of admission? Just the cost of any good game; time, energy, the letting go of non-essentials for the joy of realized ambition and success.

What's the reward? The game and its gaining. The bliss of fighting, climbing, fighting and climbing to win.

What's the method? Begin and keep going. Make a start, set a goal and attain it. Start again and make the same goal in shorter period. Set a new and sterner goal and time limit and beat the record again.

Uncle Sam can't be beat as a purveyor, game credits foot up before you know it, and it doesn't cost much to win it.

Sacrilege.

The Kansas Industrialist says skunk oil and kerosene make all the warships as limbers for rheumatism and kindred ills. Just how far should college papers be allowed to go in interference with true beliefs founded on the traditions of centuries? Pretty soon these young whippersnappers will be telling us that ussioctia amulets ward off neither germs nor devils, and that red heads around the neck won't stop nosebleeds.—Grit.

Let Action Follow Thought.

A philosopher once said that there is no value to any thought, no matter how fine or noble, unless it is transformed into action. If you feel uplifted by beautiful music, do something that will tally with your mood, and then the music has been worth while. If you read something that is inspiring, at once do something, no matter how small, that is a little different and a little superior to your routine. The theory applies with equal truth to the reading of books as more than a pastime.—Chicago American.

USE SANO FLOUR WHY?

First—It is a high quality flour—milled at home.

Second—Much care is given to keeping the quality uniform.

Third—It is milled from the choicest wheat grown in the community. There is no freight paid on either wheat or flour; no expensive traveling salesmen. Thus we can afford to make better flour for the same price.

Fourth—A local flour mill helps to make a better community, as it encourages the growing of a good grade of wheat and offers a better market for it; besides, it furnishes mill feed to our farm people without an element of freight involved.

In justice to yourself and to our community you should give

HUNGARY RULED BY BOLSHIEVIKI; WARS ON ALLIES

Joins Russian Reds in Fight on the Entente, Is Report.

PROCLAIMS A STATE OF HOSTILITY; MARTIAL LAW

Great Army of Reds Said to Be Prepared for Battle—Large Estates Are to Be Seized—Mines, Banks and Transport Lines Will Be "Socialized."

Vienna, March 24.—The Hungarian government is reported to have signed a proclamation, "acknowledging a state of war between Hungary and the entente powers."

The Karolyi cabinet, according to latest word from Budapest, has been succeeded by a new coalition government, which is joining hands with the Russian troops reported to be marching into Hungary.

The entire country has been placed under a state of siege.

All Hungary has turned bolshevik. Communists and extreme socialists dominate the new regime.

"Red" Army Ready. A great Russian bolshevik army is reported to be ready between Brody and Stanislaw.

Several regiments of Czech-Slovaks, inspired by bolshevik propaganda, have marched and gone over to the reds. They are now in Hungary.

There is danger, according to dispatches, of the red wave spreading through the ranks of the Czech-Slovak army in the south, owing to excessive agitation created on for months by Lenin and his lieutenants.

Karolyi Sits Masses. Count Michael Karolyi, before resigning as premier, which office he has held ever since the overthrow of the Hapsburg monarchy, issued a proclamation urging a "world war of the proletariat for justice," and pleading for support of the Hungarian masses against the decision of the Paris peace conference to occupy Hungary.

Soviets Pick Chief. Copenhagen, March 24.—Alexander Gorbai has assumed the presidency of the Hungarian revolutionary government of workers, peasants and soldiers' councils, with Bela Kun as foreign commissary and Joseph Poginy as war commissary, according to Budapest dispatches.

It is reported that Kun has applied to Lenin for armed assistance against the allied armies, which have occupied the greater part of Hungary for the purpose of putting down the bolshevik uprising.

The formation of the new Hungarian soviet government followed the resignation of the Karolyi cabinet Friday as a result of the new boundaries between Hungary and Roumania fixed at Paris.

Rioting Begins. Rioting throughout Hungary has accompanied the change in government, according to reports reaching here.

In Budapest, which has not as yet been occupied by the allied forces, mobs Saturday stormed the post office and other public buildings and destroyed the monuments erected to Hapsburg heroes.

All Power Is Taken. A dispatch from Budapest gives the proclamation of the new Hungarian government as follows:

"The proletariat of Hungary from today has taken all power in its own hands. By the decision of the Paris conference to occupy Hungary the provisioning of revolutionary Hungary becomes utterly impossible.

"Under these circumstances the sole means open for the Hungarian government is a dictatorship of the proletariat.

Seize All Big Estates. "Legislative, executive and judicial authority will be exercised by a dictatorship of the workers, peasants and soldiers' councils.

Did the cab? Minister-General Karolyi, who has been in the country since the decision of the Paris peace conference to occupy Hungary, says, according to dispatches from Vienna:

"The entire nation declared that it intends to regard the demarcation line as the political frontier. The aim of further occupation of the country is manifestly to make Hungary the jumping-off ground and the region of operations against the Russian soviet army which is fighting on our frontier. The land evacuated by us, however, is to be the pay of the Czech troops by means of whom the Russian soviet army is to be overcome.

As provisional president of the Hungarian people's republic, I turn, as against the Paris peace conference, to the proletariat of the world for justice and support."

Calls All Neighbors. Paris, March 24.—The proclamation of the new Hungarian government invites the workmen and peasants of Bohemia, Roumania, Serbia and Croatia to form an armed alliance against the aristocracy, land owners and capitalists. It requests also that the workmen of Austria and Germany follow the lead of Hungary in breaking off relations with the Paris peace conference.

They are requested to rally with the Moscow government and constitute a soviet republic and resist, arms in hand, the "imperialist conquerors."

The proclamation says the "government will organize an army which will enforce the proletariat's dictates against Hungarian land owners and capitalists, the Roumanian aristocracy and the Czech bourgeoisie."

The document ends by urging each workman and peasant to work in order to produce or to enlist in the army.

Troops Maintain Quiet. Copenhagen, March 24.—A dispatch from Budapest dated Friday said that at that time order was being maintained by the troops and the National Guard.

The revolutionary government, it was stated, had issued a prohibition against the carrying of arms, making the penalty for disobedience "five years' penal servitude and a fine of 50,000 kronen."

Other dispatches announce that order prevails in the country districts around Budapest.

Newspapers in Budapest have ceased publication.

Martial Law Declared. Amsterdam, March 24.—When the Hungarian cabinet, headed by Count Karolyi as provisional president, resigned late in the week, the governing party, comprising socialists and communists, proclaimed martial law throughout the entire country, according to a dispatch from Budapest.

Under the title of "Hungarian socialist party" the socialists and communists have combined and will administer the country.

Blockade Is Suppressed. Basle, March 24.—The Austrian foreign office has been informed by the Italian armistice commission that the associated powers have decided unanimously to suppress the blockade of Austria and Hungary, says a semi-official dispatch received here from Vienna.

Advices received here from Vienna are to the effect that the council of ministers has decided to seize provisionally for the purposes of state administration the real and personal property of the reigning families in Austria and also of the archdukes living abroad. The incomes from the real estate received will be paid the owners.

Give Tarnopol to Reds. London, March 24.—The Chronicle's Copenhagen correspondent says that, according to a Berlin message to the Politiken, the Hungarian crisis may affect the whole of Europe. The new government is said to have admitted the Russian Red army into Tarnopol, near the Galician frontier.

The Berlin correspondent of the Copenhagen Oskelidende says the decision for the revolution was taken Friday afternoon when the Hungarian government learned the French, Roumanian and Czech troops were to occupy Paris, or Hungary in order to stem bolshevism.

According to one story the plans were completed by Russian agents who were in Budapest ostensibly as members of the Russian Red Cross, but who were acting under orders from Moscow.

Lenine the Real Leader. The new socialist and communist rulers find the machinery of the soviet government ready, but they only nominally will run the machine; the director being Lenine.

According to the correspondent quoted, it is rumored a number of Czech regiments in the north of Hungary are mutinous, and it is feared the news of what happened in Hungary will have an inflammatory effect in the Czech state, where bolshevism has raised its head more boldly than in any other country outside of Russia.

The correspondent concludes the message rather ominously. In Vienna, he says, these events are followed with extreme tension. The populace there has shown great patience under great sufferings, but even the greatest patience can give way.

EGYPTIANS IN REVOLT ITALY MAKES THREAT

GEN. ALLENBY RUSHING WITH TROOPS TO QUELL UPRISING.

Large Number of Armed Bedouins Enter Beheira Province—Are Robbing Villages.

London, March 24.—The situation in Egypt is becoming worse and at the present time is distinctly grave, a letter dispatch from Cairo says.

General Allenby, commander in Palestine, has been summoned from Paris and will reach Cairo Tuesday. The large forces of troops already in Egypt are being reinforced.

The Turkish flag is reported to be flying in some villages of Beheira province in lower Egypt.

There are no reports of any casualties having been suffered by the military, but some prominent native officials, and several Egyptian police have been killed.

A large number of armed Bedouins have entered Beheira province from the west and are robbing towns and villages. The situation is not regarded as presenting any military danger.

Mobs at Cairo and Tanta on March 12 were suppressed by troops and the police.

The disorders in Egypt have been ascribed to the activities of the nationalist leaders.

BOLSHIEVIKI LOSE TWO CITIES

Little Troops Capture Important Town of Milan and Poles Win Pinsk.

Copenhagen, March 24.—The important railroad junction town of Altan, southwest of Biala, has been captured by Little Troops, a Polish official statement announces. The bolsheviks, the statement adds, are retiring along the whole front.

Polish troops, under pressure of Polish forces, have been compelled to retire and evacuate Pinsk, 100 miles east of Brest-Litovsk, according to a dispatch from Warsaw.

London, March 24.—Bolshevik forces were defeated in an attack on the allied positions south of Archangel. It was announced in an official communique received here. "The bolsheviks attacked Morjeperaska, 130 miles south of Archangel," said the communique. "They were repulsed, leaving five unwounded prisoners, 57 dead, many wounded and six machine guns in our hands."

DISTILLERS ACT AGAINST LAW

Will Take Prohibition Amendment to Highest Courts to Test Constitutionality.

New York, March 22.—The committee representing the entire distilling industry of the United States announced that steps were being taken to attack the constitutionality of the federal prohibition amendment and the wartime prohibition act.

Levy Mayer of Chicago, counsel to the organization, was instructed to arrange for a suit to test the emergency prohibition law as soon as the treaty of peace has been signed.

DELEGATES TO QUIT CONFERENCE UNLESS GIVEN FIUME.

Colonel House Believes Peace Treaty Will Be Ready for Signature March 29.

Paris, March 22.—The Italian delegation to the peace conference has unanimously decided to withdraw from the peace conference unless Fiume is assigned to Italy contemporaneously with the conclusion of peace.

The decision of the Italian delegation, as reported from Paris, apparently brings to a head the bitter controversy between Italy and the new Jugoslav state over the disposition of land along the Adriatic, formerly belonging to the Austro-Hungarian empire, which both nationalities claim.

The Jugoslavs, however, have been insistent that this port be allotted to them, claiming it to be essentially a Croatian city and necessary to the new Jugoslav state as affording the only feasible, suitable sea outlet for her commerce.

Paris, March 22.—The United States has put in a maximum claim for loss of life and property during the war aggregating a little less than a billion dollars, the amount for individual loss of life being $25,000 in each case.

Col. E. M. House of the United States delegation to the peace conference told British journalists he was convinced that the peace treaty, including the league of nations covenant, would be ready for signature on March 29, and added that he would be disappointed if the Germans were not at Versailles three weeks hence.

Manufacturers Have Delivered 95,551 Trucks to the War Department.

Washington, March 24.—Motor truck manufacturers have delivered to the war department 95,551 trucks of all types out of orders for 125,137 that remain to be filled after the cancellation of orders due to the close of the war had been made. Of the trucks delivered, 51,884 were shipped overseas. Department reports made public also show that all but one of the 20,038 motorcars which remained on order after cancellations had been delivered on February 1, and approximately half went overseas.

Among other orders for motor vehicle deliveries nearing completion are 14,673 ambulances and 39,239 motorcycles.

WOMEN VOTE IN MINNESOTA

State Grants Right to Ballot for Presidential Electors—Bill Passed Senate 49 to 11.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—The senate passed the suffrage bill granting women the right to vote for presidential electors. The vote was 49 to 11.

The bill was passed by the house earlier in the session and will now go to the governor for his signature.

Washington, March 22.—Acting Secretary of State Polk went to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Friday for a vacation of ten days. Assistant Secretary Phillips will be acting secretary during his absence.

"Conductorettes" Will Sue.

Cleveland, O., March 24.—The Conductorettes' association will commence legal proceedings to enforce the decision of the war-labor board, unless a woman conductor is reinstated at once.

WEALTHY GERMAN AIDS SHIP STRIKE

Urges Crews Not to Bring Food, Fearing It Will Prevent Bolshevism.

ORIGINATOR OF THE PLAN

Hamburg Propaganda Urges That an Alliance With the Russian Soviets Offers Easy Conditions of Obtaining Food From Europe.

Berlin, March 25.—Doctor Schroeder, for years one of Hamburg's leading jurists and several times a millionaire, is the leader and originator of the Hamburg strike against sending ships to fetch food.

Schroeder, one Laffenberg, and a German-Russian bolshevik named Stern, have organized and financed the Spartacan movement in Hamburg since November 10.

The Seamen's union, which is opposing the sailing, consists largely of unemployed, who have no conception with the sea except in name.

The object of the Spartacans and their allies is to prevent food coming to Germany at all costs, as experience has shown that bolshevism has little chance among the Germans as soon as fats and other foods arrive.

An illustration of this was provided in Danzig, when the first American supplies were distributed. Spartacan outbreaks had been arranged. The report of the secret police showed many thousands of adherents. The day before the intended outbreak the American commission arranged hurriedly to issue foodstuffs from supplies already landed.

No outbreaks occurred. The next day reports of confidential agents showed the number of would-be strikers would be reduced to less than one-fifth the original number.

The Hamburg propaganda, especially that of Stern, urges that it makes no difference to Germany whether she fulfills her agreements with the entente or not, as an alliance with soviet Russia offers easy conditions and chances of obtaining food from western Europe by force without payment.

Schroeder's propaganda consists mostly of attacks on the entente "capitalism." He has several times declared his adherents would resort to sabotage to prevent the sailing of the ships.

YANK KILLS 3 IN GERMANY

Slays Hun, Comrade and Farmer After Being Stopped by Guard at Hesse-Nassau.

Amsterdam, March 22.—A dispatch from Frankfurt-on-Main gives the report that an American soldier on Monday night killed three persons in a small town of Hesse-Nassau. A German frontier guard asked two American soldiers for their passes, which they did not possess, and turned them back, according to this report. Whereupon one of the Americans drew a revolver and shot the German, dead and then fired, accidentally killing his comrade as well as a German farmer.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT. It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Veyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Veyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair, after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. —Adv.

WITH FINGERS! CORNS LIFT OUT

Freezone is magic! Corns and calluses lift right off—Doesn't hurt a bit

A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple. Why wait? No humbug!

Lives 200 Years!

For more than 200 years, Hearlen Oil, the famous national remedy of Holland, has been recognized as an infallible relief from all forms of kidney and bladder disorders. Its very age is proof that it must have unusual merit.

If you are troubled with pains or aches in the back, feel tired in the morning, or too frequent passage of urine, irritation or stone in the bladder, you will almost certainly find relief in HEARLEN OIL CAPSULES. This is the good old remedy that has stood the test for hundreds of years, prepared in the proper quantity and convenient form in capsules, and you can get it at any drug store. It is a standard, old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. Each capsule contains one dose of five drops and is pleasant and easy to take. They will quickly relieve those stiffened joints, that backache, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gall stones, gravel, "brick dust," etc. Your money promptly refunded if they do not relieve you. But be sure to get the genuine GOLD MEDAL brand. In boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

HOOVER FACES TASK OF FEEDING STARVING NATIONS OF EUROPE

Backed by $100,000,000 Voted by Congress He Is Directing America's Part in the Work—Trusted Aids Make Personal Inspections of Food Situation in Poland, Serbia and Austria—Difficult Problems to Solve.

By LLOYD ALLEN,
Western Newspaper Union Staff Correspondent.

(Copyright, Western Newspaper Union.)
Paris.—Backed by $100,000,000 voted by congress, Herbert Hoover is here directing America's big part in feeding the famine-threatened nations of Europe.

But it is not the policy of Mr. Hoover to commission to give food away to the peoples now so sorely pressed with reconstruction problems. They must pay—at once, whenever possible.
When they cannot pay, they are to be given credit, with security that will insure America against total loss.

Any other policy would mean the pauperization of Europe, and Hoover has no intention whatever of conducting a commission that would quickly put the millions of Roumania, Poland, and Serbia, to say nothing of the enemy nations, into a mighty bread line.

With this fundamental policy as the basis of conducting a gigantic relief commission, Mr. Hoover first of all needed money and authority to start the machinery. He had come to Europe with $5,000,000 apportioned from President Wilson's contingent funds to finance such immediate relief work as was found, upon investigation, to be absolutely necessary for the salvation of Europe's new democracies, the Czechoslovaks, the Poles and Serbs,
and also the Roumanians.

Congress Votes $100,000,000.
When Hoover had had a chance to look around, he discovered that $5-000,000 was just about enough to finance food shipments for one of these nations. He did not single out one nation, however, but ordered cargoes aggregating $15,000,000 rushed from the United States at once.

He trusted the American people to provide the capital needed. And when he got the first news of the final passage of the $100,000,000 appropriation.
In congress, an expression of relief came into his face that had not been there for weeks.

With a small staff, Mr. Hoover has headquarters in the Hotel de Crillon, in Paris, which has been turned into a combination office building and hotel for members of the American commission to negotiate peace.

Some of Mr. Hoover's most trusted aides are making personal inspections of the food situation in Poland, Serbia, and Austria.

Dr. Alonso Taylor's report from Vienna is very interesting. He found the output of coal and agricultural products in Austria-Hungary seriously reduced during 1917, as the result of the war, and still further lowered during 1918.

War Dead 17,500,000, Says British Paper

London.—A complete summary of the world war casualties
compiled by the Manchester Guardian gives the total number of deaths at 17,500,000.

This number includes a mortality of 4,000,000 from pneumonia and influenza.

Allied losses are placed at 5-000,000, excluding a large number of French civilian dead.

Deaths suffered by the central powers are estimated at something over 2,000,000.

Italy's losses were 300,000 from disease in the war zone, or three-fifths as many as were killed in action. Four million Armenians, Syrians, Greeks and Jews were massacred by the Turks.

Serbian civilians to the number of 1,000,000 died through massacre, hunger or disease.
Germans are held responsible for deaths of 7,500 neutrals.

U-BOAT SHELTERS AT THE DOCKS OF BRUGES

German U-boat shelters built of concrete and steel, with roofs of enormous thickness for protection against allied aircraft, at the docks of Bruges.

ties of all kinds, especially textiles, have been dangerously depleted and on account of the short production of coal the railways of the Austro-Hungarian states are badly crippled. Having efficient railway transportation is an important factor in moving foods
where they are most urgently needed.
Anything for the Czechs must pass through what is left of Austria proper.

Austria-Hungary has been divided into five separate political areas. Taylor believes that this action has for the time being greatly reduced the resources of all this territory. Each state sets up barriers against the others. He found the food distribution and supply which formerly was a matter of exchange among the separate states almost at a standstill. One section will have coal, another some sugar, another some grain, but each unable to "carry on" because of lack of what the others have. In such a situation, one state, inefficient, and with its financial system paralyzed, will have plenty of coal, but no food, while another having some food cannot distribute it because its railways have no coal.

All of which causes such general unemployment as to approach the danger point.

In the essentially Austrian lands, there is a condition of anarchy. No one seems to have hope. The people wait and in Vienna make an attempt at gaily. Of industry there is none. In Jugo-Slavia and in Czechoslovakia
there is an entirely different psychology. These liberated people have faith in the future and are reaching out and struggling to build up prosperous nations, while the German-Austrian peoples drift along in an apathetic state, and the Hungarians live in a daze of proud resignation. Gallia and eastern Hungary, that have been taken over by Roumania, have become voiceless.

Doctor Taylor found the food shortage most serious in German Austria, where the people are on a very low daily ration with extremely short supplies in stock, or in sight.

In Czechoslovakia there was sufficient food to carry the nation through the worst of the winter, but a shortage before the new harvest was inevitable.

Austria-Hungary—with fatalistic attitude—seemed unable to start reconstruction; not knowing and scarcely caring what became of them. Political bitterness and financial paralysis completed the picture.

Out of this chaos, as director general of the supreme council of supply and relief, Hoover must find some method for distributing American foodstuffs.

Feed Him Before He Faints.

For the new nations, the Czech-Slovaks and the Poles and Jugo-Slavs, that have no money, the scheme for selling American foods on credit is simpler.

Should any emergency arise in these countries demanding the prompt distribution of food, it will be distributed on the principle of "feed him before he faints."

The communities, or nations must pay. Where they have no money—and the new democracies have little or no money worth anything outside their own borders—the food commission will take over some commodity produced in the nation.

Some time must elapse before the Americans can trade with Austria even on the basis of getting money or its equivalent for every pound of American-bought food that is distributed, because Austria was one of the nations against which America declared war.

Until the blockade is lifted American interests cannot trade with the Austrians—unless perchance the situation develops to a point where red tape must be cut to save the lives that otherwise would be lost on account of the hundreds of famine.

While the peace conference was building up a machine to settle problems arising from a war-torn Europe,

FAMOUS YANK FLYERS

Capt. W. W. Shaffer (standing) and Lieutenant Tillman, son of the late Senator Tillman, in the observer's seat of a plane of the Nineteenth Aero Squadron, Seventy-ninth Division, at Bethelville, France.

Poland, one of the new democracies, was suffering from lack of foods that could only be supplied from America.

Saved From Starvation.

Hoover sent Dr. Vernon Kellogg to investigate the situation. Kellogg reported: "Poland must have immediate assistance from the outside world (which meant America) if the poorer inhabitants of the large cities and the unemployed workmen and children in the industrial centers were saved from starvation."

Under normal conditions, Poland is self-supporting, as regards food, but four and a half years of war had brought the nation to desperate straits.
German looters stripped all machines of copper and bellows. Scores of machines were wantonly destroyed. Tons of stuff were carried away by the Germans.

In all Poland, with its 4,000,000 people, the danger of starvation was a daily menace from December, when the peace conference started, until food from America arrived.

Take Security.

It is with such nations as Poland that Hoover has to deal. There was only one way to obtain some kind of compensation for American foods distributed. This "one way" entailed considerable risk when one thought in terms of millions of dollars. But millions—in the old war game were mere pawns in the gigantic enterprise of war. And in the reconstruction days they had to be viewed from the same standpoint. The one just method, according to the Hoover policy, was to take some kind of security from the nations benefited by American supplies. Each nation had a different security. Roumania had oil fields which formed a basis of credit, if the world (America) sent food in time. The world needed oil, and Roumania needed food.

In Warsaw there was another kind of security; the woolen mills, which in peace times were among the finest in the world. Factories could not reopen, however, until the employees were fed. The population was weakened from hunger. "Feed the people;
they in turn will feed the securities," was the Hoover policy. The first need had been met by a gift ship from America, but it is only a drop in the bucket.

Extracting Salt From Ocean.

Experiments in Norway with a view to extracting salt from ocean water by means of electricity have been successful, and two salt factories will be started for this purpose in the near future. Each factory is calculated to produce 50,000 tons of salt a year for a start, but they will be so built that the production can be brought up to double the quantity, if necessary. Besides the salt, different by-products will be made.

AMERICAN PEOPLE READY TO COMPLETE THE JOB

Victory Liberty Loan Must Succeed to a Degree in Keeping With Success of Former Loans.

By CHARLES H. SCHWEPPE, Director of Victory Liberty Loan Campaign, Seventh Federal Reserve District.

Despite the fact that hostilities have ceased and preliminary steps to the signing of a peace treaty have been taken, our big war job is not finished. The job will not be completed until the war bills are paid and the state of the nation is dealt. Those of us who remained on this side of the water still have work to do to polish off the great victory won by our soldiers and sailors, and the work before us is as patriotic and essential as that already accomplished.

The Victory Liberty Loan must succeed to a degree in keeping with the success of the four previous loans. This success can be attained only through the efforts and enthusiasm of the entire people. Liberty Loan organizations must put into their efforts the same vim and fire that characterized their work in the previous loans. The people must do everything within their power to aid the organizations in performing the task that is as much theirs as in the time when the nation was at war.

The spirit of thanksgiving should permeate the American atmosphere—should dominate the heart of every citizen, for it is not been for the extensive preparation to fight the central powers until victory neared upon our banner the war would have been prolonged indefinitely, with a consequent loss of thousands of lives that otherwise were saved to us when the German general staff acknowledged the futility of continuing the struggle for world domination. The great victory was achieved very largely through the shells that were never exploded, through the soldiers that did not go across, and through the general preparations in other directions. The American people can give expression to their thanksgiving by subscribing to the limit of their ability in making the Victory Liberty Loan an overwhelming success.

The fullness of the great victory will not be realized until the war bills are paid and all the boys brought home. The expenses of the war have been huge, but America set out to win the war at any cost, and now, with victory secure, the American people stand ready to complete the job assigned to them—providing the money necessary to win the victory.

"HELP FINISH THE JOB."

WHY YOUR MONEY IS NEEDED—HOW IT HELPS

This Brief Questionnaire Gives Interesting Information on the Victory Liberty Loan.

The government already is exploiting the Victory Liberty Loan, which will be floated in April. In order that the people may start saving for the purpose of investing in bonds of the "Victory Issue." The following brief questionnaire should tend to clarify the mind of any reader regarding the Victory Loan.

Q. The war being over, why is there need of another great popular war loan?

A. The proceeds from the Fourth loan, according to Secretary of the Treasury Glass, were exhausted last December, and the government must have billions more with which to maintain our forces overseas, bring the victors home and carry out its reconstruction plans.

Q. If Uncle Sam's strong-box is empty, how is he paying his after-war expenses?

A. This is being done with money borrowed from the banks at the rate of $600,000,000 every two weeks, short-term anticipation certificates of indebtedness being issued in return.

Q. As long as the banks are advancing the money, why not let them continue to do so?

A. Because in order to continue to extend credit to the business interests big and little of the country the banks must get back this money—amounting to 20 per cent of their entire resources—when it falls due, as only this can the prosperity we now enjoy be continued.

Q. Will the Victory Loan be offered to the people on a commercial basis, or will their patriotism again be appealed to?

A. Secretary Glass says the patriotism of the American people will be relied upon to send the loan triumphantly "over the top." It, however, will be made particularly attractive as to rate of interest and period of maturity.

Q. What are the monthly war expenditures of the government at the present time?

A. The latest official figures show that Uncle Sam is expending money at the rate of more than $2,000,000,000 a month.

Q. Suppose I bought bonds of preceding issues and feel I can't afford to buy any more Liberty bonds?

A. Uncle Sam has to pay his bills, and you must afford to, even if you have to continue far, a further time denying yourself luxuries and necessities. Unless the Victory Liberty Loan is a success the government will be compelled to raise the money it needs by direct taxation, and there are no interest coupons on tax receipts.

Capes and More Capes

Designers are still turning out wraps that are the result of combining two distinctly different styles into one garment. This is an idea carried over from winter into spring wraps, and so long as it holds there is no chance of exhausting the endless variety of cape-coats, cape-dresses and all other sorts of capes that are shorter in back than in front. The collar, sleeve openings are faced with a heavy velvet or fur, in a contrasting color, and the cape is finished with a black, will facings in beige silk, the handsomest of these wraps.

Sport Clothes to Welcome Summer

Of all the clothes with which women are preparing to welcome the coming summer, and the boys overseas who will return with it, those in the sport class prove the most satisfying. Georgette, high-necked blouse, tucked front, fastening with small pearl buttons, is of the right degree of richness as to materials and of wonderful excellence in design. Nothing expresses the woman of today quite so well as these smart and informal things in which she is well enough dressed for all the happenings of a summer's day.

Certain of the new weaves in silks have opened new worlds for the designers of sport clothes to conquer. These designers are gazing down at hurling vistas which the looms are creating for them and the unfolding of sport styles is growing more and more interesting. An outfit that may be accepted as a standard of smartness is pictured here. It is made up of a skirt of baronet satin, white, with rings in turquoise blue in widely scattered groups thrown upon it. The sweater of turquoise knitted silk has some new features that will hold the attention. It is one of those soft, rough, loosely-knitted affairs that lead the procession of new sweater styles. It is open part way down the front, a scarf that crosses at the throat, is carried round the waist to tie back, is a part of it. Cuffs, waist and shoulders are adjusted closely to the figure by a change in the sleeve, which is different from the usual in the body of the sweater. Pretty, high-necked blouse, tucked front, fastening with small pearl buttons, is of the right degree of richness as to materials and of wonderful excellence in design. Nothing expresses the woman of today quite so well as these smart and informal things in which she is well enough dressed for all the happenings of a summer's day.
